POTTERS SEEK TARIFF AID IN WASHINGTON

Manufacturers and Union Chief go to Hearing.

DUTY JUMP ASKED

W. E. Wells and James M. Duffy Will Testify.

Representatives of the United States Potters' association, the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters and importers of English and French-made table ware are in Washington today, preparing to appear before the senate finance committee late this afternoon or tomorrow to appeal for tariff reforms.

W. E. Wells, of the Homer Laughlin China company, will be the spokesman for the manufacturers, while President James M. Duffy of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will testify in behalf of the 7,500 organized workers in the ceramic industry. One or two importers will also take the stand.

The manufacturers' delegation, in addition to W. E. Wells, includes President M. W. Thompson of the United States Potters' association; J. M. Wells, superintendent of the Nos. 6 and 7 plants of the Homer Laughlin China company; Charles L. Sabring of the Lehigh Pottery, Inc., Alliance, and B. E. Salisbury of Syracuse, N. Y.

The Hawley-Smoot bill provides an increase of 10 cents a dozen on earthenware in addition to the present ad valorem rates. Manufacturers told the ways and means committee of congress before the measure was framed last January that an increase of 25 cents a dozen was needed in order to provide protection.

WHAT is the news? That depends on what you call news. Voltaire's advice, "Definitions nos termes." ("Let us define our terms"), is sound.

A COMMERCIAL flying machine, British, bound from London to Paris, dove into the English channel, drowning seven.

SENATOR BORAH is making a hard fight against suggested tariff legislation, charging "betrayal of the farmer."

That news affects 120,000,000 Americans.

THE three plucky Frenchmen plan to fly back to America. William Rogers is severe on their American stow-away. He will apologize if he learns that the stow-away business was planned in advance, with the knowledge of the fliers.

SEVERE earthquake, just below your feet in New Zealand, kills seven. And in Japan the volcano Komagatake, quiet for 19 years, suddenly burst into a rage, filling villages with ashes, driving out the people, burning homes.

If anybody tells you to stop your automobile, STOP IT. It may be a holdup, and you may be robbed. But that is better than being shot. Grady Phillips, a young Georgian sawmill operator, failed to stop his car, near Tallapoosa. He's dead! No liquor in the car.

THE Rev. D. William S. Sunday quits his church in New York to publish a religious magazine to be called "Vision." It won't print advertisements.

Another Rev. William Sunday, known as "Bible," if he started a religious publication, would print all the advertising he could get. Using the best advertisements for texts, and justify it on the ground that the first and biggest colored advertisement ever published was the first rainbow, advertising the fact that the flood wouldn't be repeated.

JOE VACCARO, the last surviving member of Tony Parretti's "murder stable," was shot dead Sunday, as he stood on the sidewalk. Of fifteen bullets fired, six hit him. When "Big Tim" Sullivan, one of Tammany's bosses, introduced a law forbidding anyone to carry a pistol, the Constitution notwithstanding, he said, "For $150 I can hire a man to kill anybody in the United States."

Tony Parretti could do the work more cheaply. In old days he paid his killers only $15 to $20 a week.

"BE SLOB," GRAD TELLS HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 19.—(INS)—"Be slob. You can run away with the boss' wife as easily as you can marry the chamber maid."

Harvard commencement crowds today were still laughing over this advice to Crimson seniors at the class day exercises by Allan R. Blackburn, Jr., of Auburndale, N. Y., in his ivy oration. It was said to be satire on the commencement speech at Massachusetts Institute of Technology by Professor Robert E. Rogers who urged Tech seniors to be "snobs and marry the boss' daughter, not his stenographer."

LINDY AND HIS BRIDE JOYRIDE IN AIRPLANE

New "We" Seek Cooling Breezes at Mitchell Field.

COLONEL GALLANT

"Lone Eagle" Lifts Anne Into Observer's Seat.

By DAVID P. SENTNER, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., June 19.—The new "We"—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride—went joyriding today in a plane for the first time since they were married.

Seeking cooling breezes above the heat-bound earth, Lindbergh took off in a Falcon army monoplane at 12:22 p. m. It landed 15 minutes later.

The colonel aided the slim former Anne Morrow in strapping on her parachute and then buckled one on himself.

He gallantly took her in his arms and lifted her into the observer's seat behind the pilot's cockpit.

The plane swooped above and flitted with the upper heights circled the field several times, finally gliding gracefully to the ground.

Colonel Back on Job.

The colonel was back on the job acting as a judge at the safe aircraft competition under the auspices of the Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aviation.

He scanned the skies expertly, and perhaps a trifle longingly, as myriads of planes scintillated in the sunlight.

As usual, Lindbergh was without a hat. As usual, he wore a dark blue suit. But contrary to the usual, the colonel chatted volubly—with his bride.

For almost the first hour, the returned bridal couple kept to the protection of their automobile, sitting together and commenting in overlapping dialogue on things aeronautical.

Mrs. Lindbergh wore a summery costume of light blue.

Both were sun-tanned from their honeymoon yachting excursion.

The newspaper photographers were also back on the job.

They surrounded the automobile and "shot" the ex-honeymooners from more positions than an aeroplane ever hoped to attain.

WAYNESBORO, Pa., June 19.—(INS)—A bursting section of the Lake Royer dam near Camp Albert D. Ritchie, Maryland, today sent 40,000,000 gallons of water cascading down to the patched farm lands near Rouzersville, Pa., causing crop and property damage estimated at $50,000.

No persons were directly in the path of the rushing waters.

Eight Waynesboro high school girls, camping in a bungalow 50 yards from where the torrent smashed through the dam, fled to safety when roused by a Waynesboro newspaper man.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 19.—(INS)—The dam on Lake Royer, about twenty miles from here, went out early today, flooding farm lands, endangering life and destroying valuable property and crops. So far as can be learned from a survey this morning there have been no casualties.

MERCURY HITS 95 IN SHADE AS CITY SWELTERS

Shower Party in East End Tomorrow Afternoon.

96 HIGH TUESDAY

Virtually Every Section Of United States Suffers.

With the mercury soaring to 95 degrees in the Diamond at noon today, indications were the season's heat record would be broken here before night. The noon reading was two degrees higher than at the same hour yesterday.

The highest temperature reported Tuesday was 96 degrees which was recorded at 2:30 p. m. Another reading on a thermometer on the sunny side of the police booth was 112 degrees.

Children of East End district will be guests at a shower party in front of the Virginia avenue fire station between 12 and 2 p. m. tomorrow, firemen announced today. More than 500 tots enjoyed the cool water from two sprays at a party in front of the Central school, East Fourth street, this afternoon. Other shower parties will be held by Fire Chief Bryan if the heat wave continues.

Crystal pool at Rock Springs park and bathing beaches along the Ohio river were the mecca for hundreds of bathers, seeking relief from the heat, last night.

Many Deaths Reported.

In virtually every section of the country, particularly the east, the mercury had mounted to near-record heights.

Innumerable deaths and prostrations were reported in International News Service dispatches from the north, south, east and west.

In New York City, residents were preparing to endure another day similar to Tuesday when the mercury touched 93 degrees to record the hot, test June 13 in 43 years. Eleven deaths have been attributed to the heat in the east in the last 24 hours.

New England likewise felt the wrath of tropical temperatures. The weather bureau predicted that Boston would be as hot today as it was yesterday when 94 degrees were recorded. One death and a score of prostrations were reported in the Massachusetts metropolis.

Glochester and Fall River, Mass., reported 103 and 110 degrees respectively.

The mid-west after a scorching yesterday saw no prospects of a letup today. Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Kansas City all reported temperatures in the neighborhood of 90.

Lower Temperatures In West.

Farther west found the weather slightly more endurable. Bismarck, N. D., boasted a temperature of 76; Denver, 78; Salt Lake City, 76; San Francisco, 70; Portland, Ore., 64, and Helena, Mont., 62. About the hottest city to be found anywhere, the temperature touched an even 100 degrees there yesterday. The south stood on a par with the mid-west. San Antonio reported 90 degrees; New Orleans, 86; Jacksonville, 80; Galveston, 84; Charleston, 86; Atlanta, 84; Baltimore, 90; Savannah, 83, and Tampa, 83.

MARION MEYERS RELEASED FROM COLUMBUS JAIL

Dr. James H. Snook Still Held in Investigation.

MURDER UNSOLVED

Ohio State University Professor Tells Story To Scribes.

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—(INS)—Marion T. Meyers, who, with Dr. James H. Snook, has been held since Saturday on a technical charge of investigation in connection with the murder of Miss Theora Hix, Ohio State university co-ed, was ordered released by Prosecutor John J. Chester shortly before noon today.

Meyers is Silent.

Chester told newspapermen he believed Meyers had "not told all he knew" about the murder mystery, but added the authorities had no excuse for holding the Ohio State university faculty member longer.

Meyers' release followed another grilling of him by police probes.

A free man again, the first thing Meyers did was to ask a friend for a cigarette.

He was figuratively mobbed by newspapermen. But all the scribes could get out of him was one statement—that it "felt fine to be on the outside again."

Asked if he had made a statement, during the investigation, that he was "afraid of Snook," Meyers turned his back on the writers and walked away.

He secured the release of his automobile, which had also been held, and drove away from the jail.

Discrepancies in Story.

Discrepancies in the story of the whereabouts of Dr. James H. Snook, 40, on the night that Miss Hix was brutally beaten and slashed to death, were discovered by police and newspapermen today.

Dr. Snook, a former professor in the veterinary department at the college, is held without bond for investigation in connection with the most brutal crime that has been written into the criminal annals of Columbus.

In an interview just as the rising sun peeped through the iron-barred windows of his cell in county jail, Dr. Snook declared that his wife had

Council Gets Street Car Franchise Plan

Traction Company, Seeking Renewal for 25 Years Outlines Co-operative Steps in Proposed Improvement Program.

WELLSVILLE, O., June 19.—Initial plan of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company, looking toward the renewal of its franchise with the city, was presented last night to city council.

The plan was formulated at a recent meeting of members of the council franchise committee with officials of the car company and deals primarily with the company's ability to take part in suggested street improvements.

Here is what the company proposes:

First: That the franchise be renewed for a period of 25 years.

Second: That the company will ing to install new rails and new ties in Clark avenue from Seventh street to Wooster's, providing the street is improved on a concrete base, and will contribute $20,000 toward the cost of the improvement, to be done in 1930.

Third: That the company is willing to place new ties and rails in Seventh street from Clark to Main, in Main to Third, and in Third to Leavenworth, contributing $18,000 per mile of double tracks in the event the city improves these streets; the company is agreeable to a rebuilt street or resurfacing, provided, however, that the resurfacing is kept outside the track area, this area to be of concrete, and the work to be done in 1931-1932 or thereafter.

Fourth: That the company is willing to contribute at the rate of $8,000 per mile of double tracking to the cost of proposed improvements from Wooster's west to the city limits.

Fifth: That the company is willing to maintain the present rate of fare for a three-year period.

When the franchise committee presented the plan to council, Member Will Haugh commented to the effect that it was just a plan at the present time and nothing more, that the city had in no way made any promises.

Council received and filed the plan without action.

CITY EMPLOYEE ASKS BACK PAY

Ernest Clutter, Laid Off, Files Claim With Council.

Ernest Clutter, former employee of the city service department, last night presented a bill for back pay amounting to a sum between $800 and $900 to council.

He was represented by Attorney W. A. O'Grady.

Clutter, it is said, was laid off by the service department a short time ago and now seeks back pay he claims is due to him.

Clutter maintains that he was working as assistant plumber and that an ordinance enacted in 1927, which specifies that telephone plumbers are to be paid at the rate of 40 cents an hour. He had been working for 40 cents an hour.

Councilmen asked Service Director George Imbrie for an explanation of the affair and he suggested that a committee be named to consider it. President Clyde Baker then delegated this duty to the finance committee.

Auditor Fred Eckfeld submitted the following report: Service, $1518.14; general, $1,037.48; safety, $399.85; health, $67.78; library, $199.47; cemetery, $227.61; utility, $167.72; gasoline tax, $2,028.21; auto license, $3,371.39; firemen's indemnity, $332.06; cemetery, $623.82; sinking fund, $19,275.74.

Director Imbrie was instructed to erect "slow" signs for auto traffic contiguous to the Seventeenth street play ground.

Plans for an inspection of the bell line sewer, together with railroad of fields, were discussed by council. The solicitor will arrange the date.

Imbrie informed council that clean up work at McQueen's run sewer was rapidly nearing completion.

Owa-Ton-Na Benefitted Me More Than Words Can Tell

Mrs. Judy Advises Women Suffering From Nerves, Headaches, Backaches, Dizziness and a General Run Down Condition of Health, to Try This Fine Old Indian Remedy.

Thousands of women find Owa-Ton-Na a particularly beneficial aid in the elimination of harmful toxic poisons which bring about characteristic ailments peculiarly their own. These poisons if allowed to accumulate bring about serious disorders and in the critical age of middle life when the system is unusually taxed, often times a complete breakdown is the result. Owa-Ton-Na's aid in eliminating these poisons is a harmless method of aiding nature and keeping the system up to par.

Owa-Ton-Na cleansing effect on the liver and kidneys aid these very important organs in performing their work which results in a better condition of the blood, in order that it may absorb poisons from delicate nerves and send to them good rich, strengthening nourishment. Its cleansing and tonic effect on the stomach, results in better assimilation of properly digested food which in itself proves a remarkable aid in the restoration of strength and vitality, resulting in renewed energy.

One of the remarkable cases where Owa-Ton-Na has proved itself well adapted to aid women is the case of Mrs. Maggie Judy, Ninth street, Chester, W. Va. She says: "For the past ten years my nerves have been constantly on edge. Headaches, dizzy spells and a weakened run down condition seemed to be always present. I was almost at the point of distraction. So tired, I could hardly get around to do my housework. I didn't care whether I saw anyone or not."

"I was terribly constipated yet laxatives gave me no relief. Food I didn't care for. When I ate, I would have terrible attacks of indigestion. Sourness and gave me no sleep of breath and weak. My kidneys, too, were in terrible condition. Backaches were so bad that at times I could hardly bear them. It just seemed that my whole body ached. Time after time, I have tried new treatments, almost anything that was recommended to me but without results. I had heard so much of Owa-Ton-Na, how it had helped women in a similar condition that I finally was induced to try it."

"Had I done so long before I could have saved myself a lot of misery. So eagerly did I take Owa-Ton-Na, that I didn't miss a dose and in a very short time, this fine old Indian Remedy started to give me results. It was just like lifting a big load from my shoulders, so great was the relief. My nerves quieted down, elimination began to be normal, my appetite improved until I could hardly get enough to eat, yet food digested properly and caused me no trouble.

"Thank goodness, these terrible backaches and headaches are gone again and I can go to sleep and get a good night's sleep. I get up in the morning refreshed and feel like doing my work. I want to say that Owa-Ton-Na is especially good for a change of life and I feel there is nothing to equal it to, and can safely recommend it to anyone.

Sufferers should not hesitate in giving this remedy a trial. The Owa-Ton-Na that Mrs. Judy recommends so highly is daily being explained to eager health seekers at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 East Sixth street, East Liverpool, O., by a special laboratory representative who will be glad to tell you about its merits. ## MOTORIST FINED, LOSES LICENSE

Pleading guilty to driving while intoxicated, John Oana of Salem was fined $100 and costs and his automobile license suspended for 60 days by Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman at Lisbon. Oana was arrested on the Cox highway last Sunday night by Constable A. C. Greenamyer of Damascus and Deputy Sheriff C. E. Donahay. After he had been in jail a few hours, friends of Oana paid his fine and costs and he was released.

Michael Konja, also of Salem, who was also arrested with Oana, was charged with being intoxicated, was fined $50 and costs, which he also paid.

Oana wrecked his own car and damaged a truck of the Hostetter Trucking company, of Akron when he was driving on the Cox highway. Konja was a passenger in the car.

WOMEN TAKE HAND IN FRENCH VOTING

PARIS.—The women made themselves heard in the recent elections held in France.

At Mitry-Mory, small commune near Paris, a woman figured on the assembly list and Madame Amelle Martin, housewife, was elected municipal councillor on the Communist ticket. The law, however, forbids a woman to accept this office and a new election must be held.

At Macon, a woman who figured on the Socialist ticket received a large majority of the votes polled. And at Arige, the women, not being allowed to vote, invaded the voting booths and upset the boxes. The police were obliged to restore order to the place.

Shower Parties and Bathing

With the eastern half of the United States rizzling in a record-breaking heat wave, East Liverpool children, thanks to the thoughtfulness of Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, will be given some relief as well as an hour of joy at a shower party this afternoon.

In keeping with a custom of bygone years, the fire department head arranged for the children's party, which will be held in front of the Central school building, East Fourth street, when the mercury began to climb above the 90-degree mark.

Big brothers and sisters and even mothers and fathers will envy the youngsters as they disport in the spray from fire hose today, for they will not be among the guests. Instead, many of them will seek relief in creeks and rivers. And, as a result, they may invite sickness, for not infrequently such bathing places are polluted.

Sewage deposits, unless treated, will poison rivers and creeks, as Health Officer Rockwood warns in a statement at Cleveland, advising bathers to avoid two beaches in city parks which are now open. He advises Forest City people who intend to swim at beaches there to vaccinate against typhoid.

Perhaps the same danger lurks in the waters of the Ohio river, Beaver creek and other inviting places in the East Liverpool district. This is not a pleasant picture for bathers. It will pay to bathe in pools which have a water-purification system.

The Handclasp

The touching of hands originated as a manifestation of friendship in the days when all men were enemies until their action proved them to be otherwise. It is probable that the handclasp before it became associated with politicians' cigars and trite phrases meant a great deal more than it does under ordinary present circumstances.

Shaking hands, the American way of performing the ritual, is an action to amaze and surprise. Under its regime, every hand of reasonable cleanliness is regarded as an object to be pounced upon and mangled. Closely imitating the motion of a pump or the pulling of a rope the victim's hand is mangled up and down with an occasional side twist by way of emphasis. It is supposed to symbolize good fellowship and it does so according to current notions that all worthy things must show plenty of action.

Even the ordinary handclasp has degenerated into a high pressure process. The president of the United States, a robust man, was forced to limit the number of patriotic citizens who wanted to squeeze his hand. So many of them made the mistake of acting as if they were operating a muscle testing machine at a penny arcade that the good old custom had to be stopped.
Many are the tears that are shed.

There are various and sundry handclaspings. Worst of all is the "fishy" which resembles a dead eel; it is the other extreme of the "mangle." There is the "clammy" whose owner should immediately be put into chains and filed away. There is the "evangelistic," accompanied by the use of the other hand, one being placed on the elbow of the victim to prevent escape. Occasionally an action of this kind can be trusted, but usually it is best to make practical use of the free fist. There is the "enthusiastic," which can be excused on rare occasions such as the winning of games, the birth of twin boys or the winning of a lottery. It may also serve as a substitute for calisthenics, but the act may usually be construed as one of mere violence. There is, along toward the last of the list, the "hypocritical" which too often goes undetected. It is a mild form of the Judas kiss and can usually be detected by a faraway look in the eye. And last, of course, is the real handclasp—the kind that means the expression of real feeling and sincerity. The average man usually experiences two or three of them in the course of his life. The handclasp has degenerated sadly.

Delayed Action

Announcement that Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the recent installed Labor government in England, would come to America to discuss naval reductions and settlement of the British debt with the president of the United States government was almost startling. Straightforward methods of problem solution such as face-to-face talks and discussion of underlying considerations are so rare in international politics that any manifestation of a desire to settle a dispute in that way is big news.

Premier MacDonald was elected on a platform which contained a heavy plank on naval reductions. Within a few days after he is established in his position as leader of the English government, he makes it known that he would like to talk the matter over with the country which is closest to England in the matter. That is enough to establish Mr. MacDonald as a decidedly superior man, at least an original one. Possibilities of action between such a man and our own President Hoover seem to be greater than between any other pair of statesmen that can be called to mind.

England's navy is her pride and the bulwark of her national defense. Her outlying possessions have demanded maintenance of the greatest navy in the world,
but her prestige has been threatened by prosperous America with vast funds available for the construction of battleships. The English, too, want battleships but they do not want to be obliged to indulge in a mad race for power with the apparently unlimited source of taxpayer's money available in America.

It is a titanic international poker game with both players ready to declare a limit if a tactful way of doing it can be discovered. England has made the first move;
President Hoover, through Charles Dawes has responded. It looks like impending action, because it has been approached in a sensible way.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—The aboriginal tenants of North America, the Red Indians, are looking forward to a new and prosperous era under the present administration. The fact that President Hoover, the new Great White Father at Washington, is a western man is realized by many of the Indians and the tribes are expecting a full measure of attention from the federal authorities. This expectation appears to be well justified. President Hoover has seen more of Indian life than most presidents of recent generations with,
perhaps, the exception of President Roosevelt.

That the president plans special care of the 330,000 Indians remaining in the country is indicated by his appointment as Commissioner of Indian Affairs of Charles F. Rhoads of Philadelphia. Rhoads is a Quaker and, at the time of his appointment, was president of the Indian Rights association. His father had held the position before him.

The Indian office comes under the department of interior, and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, a western man, also has a profound interest in the Indian problem.
He has announced that he hopes to see the era soon pass when the Indian shall be regarded as a ward and a responsibility of the government. He desires to see him assimilated as a full citizen into the economic and cultural life of the country.

Administration of Indian affairs offers many complex problems. The ramifications of the Indian service are perhaps wider than those of any other federal governmental agency. For in respect to the Red Men, the federal government must take on the responsibilities usually discharged by state, county, or municipal governments. Indian property remains largely under direct governmental supervision. Indian schools are directed by the United States. Public health matters are under control of Washington. There must be special agricultural agencies to assist them, particularly in sections where irrigation and reclamation is a factor. There has been great advance in making full-blooded citizens out of Indians but much work remains to be done.

Although the entire number of Indians in the continental United States is less than the population of a medium-sized city, they are so widely scattered that Indians are to be found in very state in the Union.
This, in itself, adds largely to the responsibility of the federal officials in charge.

Twenty-three states have 1,000 or more Indians. Oklahoma has the largest Indian population—119,335. This is due to the fact that the state absorbed the old Indian territory. Next comes Arizona with 46,960 Indians and then South Dakota with 23,124. Of the states having 1,000 or more Indians, Louisiana is at the bottom of the list with 1,086. New York state has 4,419 Indians or more than the typical western states of Idaho, Wyoming, or Utah. And North Carolina has 12,369 Indians.

The last census showed 280 separate Indian tribes in the country. Forty-two of these tribes had ten or fewer members who still clung tenaciously to their tribal identity. Fifty-two different languages were found among the 280 tribes.

The largest single group is made up of the five civilized tribes. The number is close to 73,000 and all are located in eastern Oklahoma. The Cherokees are the most numerous tribe left in the United States, having 36,432 members. They and the Choctaws, Creeks, Chickasaws, and Seminoles constitute the five civilized tribes. The Indians of this general group are started on the pathway to civilization and assimilation and some are far along. However, about 20,000 still live practically as they did a century ago.

The second most numerous tribe is made up of the picturesque Navajos. There are some 35,000 of these living almost entirely in Arizona and New Mexico. Of the groups, they live most independently of the white men of all Indians. They still follow age-old customs and are self-sufficient. Their blanket weaving and basket work are famous.

Next in tribal strength come the Chippewas who are scattered through Minnesota, Wisconsin, and North Dakota, Minnesota leading with 14,800 out of the total of 25,000 members of the tribe. Whereas the Navajos are of very pure blood, that of the other tribes named and of the Chippewas has been mingled with white blood to an appreciable extent. The Sioux Indians, living in the Dakotas and Montana, number about as many as the Chippewas.

The Southwest Indians come next numerically with the famous Pueblo Indians leading. There are 9,000 Pueblos. The Zunis and Hopis, the Pimas and Papagos are other tribes of this region. They have a civilization of their own which is very ancient and they pursue primitive practices.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Some of the most successful acts along the Rialto the past few seasons are those that barnstormed the kerosene circuit for years in obscurity. Many had long given up hope of New York engagements and were content with small town plaudits.

The most glamorous phase of trouping is that accidental circumstance that catapults the seemingly mediocre player to the Crazy Alley's quick fame and a name in lights. The shredded phrase "Success over night" is becoming an increasing reality.

The shoeless Weaver Brothers and Elvira from the bleak Arkansas hills knocked about the five-day halls for season after season and convulsed the yokel audiences. But the act was considered just billible stuff until they were suddenly substituted for a turn at the Palace one day and "rooled." The Death Watch.

Charles Butterworth with his Rotarian speech with gestures was another small timer whose buccolic humor was thought appropriate only for the cross roads but he has lingered on Broadway for more than a year.
Chic Sale is an illustrious example of the way Gotham chuckles at its country cons.

Clark and McCullough were rowdy burlesquers who graduated from the warren shows yet so infectious is their rowdy howdy that even a second rate play they held forth on West 42nd street for nearly two years. Jim Harton, a highly paid favorite, used to do the same stuff for $35 a week in the sticks.

Frisco and his "theater" came out of the cellar cabarets. George White and Dan Healy landed while messenger boy via amateur nights. Fannie Brice was a Brooklyn news girl and sidewalk dancer. Joe Cook is a product of back yard pin shows. Helen Morgan, Harry Richman, Gilda Gray and Ruby Keeler were night club performers.

In almost every instance these acts were under the noses of theatrical scouts for years and ripe for plucking.
On the other hand so many tank turns "clad eggs" that until recently it was the rarest thing in the world for the wow in the tall grass to get a Broadway chance.

The mercurial ups and downs of the theatre have been registered by a star and her husband. He was comparatively obscure when she became famous. He became celebrated in the movies about the same time she quit

the stage for the screen and "flopped."
The talkies came along and she is now one of the large bets. His voice failed to register. And he is now out of a job.

In an exclusive Park Avenue backdoor building, 15 tenants have agreed to serve no liquor in their apartments from now on. Mixing drinks among mixed folk brought about several ruckuses including a near murder and attempt at suicide.

When John W. Gates occupied his $20,000 a year suite at the old Waldorf years ago, his profligacy flashed on first pages with sundry editorialized embellishment. Today in one building along upper 5th avenue
there are six apartments with a yearly rental of more than $80,000 each. Several hotels have apartments let for $50,000 a year each.

On Sunday along the wide paved pier fronts on West street are scores of baseball games played by boys of the neighborhood. Each team has its following and small betting adds to the excitement. I saw no between the "Dock Rats" and the "Sewer Stars" and there was probably a dull afternoon in the pool rooms.

The dancing twins who used to be billed in vaudeville as The Dodge Sisters and who are, I am told, natives of Dodge City, Kan., have been appearing on the continent for several months. They are now in a Broadway revue as "Miles, Beth and Betty Dodge." Get away from that zebra's head!

Ted Hilly observes that if some of the Broadwayites wear a monocle for a weakness in the eye there are several who ought to wear a glass hat.

asleep at my desk since I left college a year ago. What shall I do?"

Union Against War.

The development of President Hoover's plan looking toward further naval disarmament will be gravely regarded by the world. The president, in this, as in other matters of serious import to the nation, advances, if not new thought at least new variant of thought, in connection with the controversy which to date has led to little of practical international agreement and value.

In this contemplation President Hoover turns naturally to Britain. He is aware that in any proposal or union against war, or looking toward the control of war's agencies, Britain and America must be in accord or such proposal or union must be worthless.
He is aware that an agreement between Britain and America to limit armament, or to join in an effort for the maintenance of world peace, would represent an influence against which no ordinary antagonism could prevail.

But great as would be a consummation so splendid, it necessarily could not proclaim the ending of human conflict. The Bishop of Plymouth at the Plymouth celebration of Memorial day very truly said:

"The possibility of war between England and America today is inconceivable, but history produces a warning showing that the countries might blunder into war again.

"Common sense and good will have prevailed in time of great stress between England and America, proving that if Britain and the United States work in loyal harmony they can do more than anybody else to avert war
throughout the world."

That the president may be trusted to enter into no accord or agreement which in any way could be detrimental to the great sovereignty of which he is the present official representative head, it well may be believed.—

"Have Your Insurance Written by Men Who Know"

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.
More Milk of Human Kindness Needed.

How do you treat the member of your family who is in poor health?
By your words and actions do you indicate that you believe he or she is not so ill as pretended?

Do you ridicule this person, especially in efforts to be careful?
Do you fail to make allowances of the peculiarities they present?

Isn't it true that you have little sympathy and easily become irritated because of the action of those whose minds and physical condition are not normal?

Some persons not in good health do impose upon their stronger associates,
to be sure.

They make unwarranted demands and complain much.

Those who are ill or in declining health may not be as amiable as one might wish or as those who are free from affliction.

But when members of the family are unsympathetic and too matter-of-fact in dealing with the delicate in health, sadness comes with the suffering.

Those who are ill do not have a normal self-control and for that reason don't be too hard and unfeeling —be kind.

It is the little thoughtful attentions,
perhaps literally a cup of cold water to the thirsty little patient, that comfort and are worth a few extra steps.

ALL-STAR CAST IN "IRON MASK"

In his newest United Artists Picture, "The Iron Mask," now at the State theater, Douglas Fairbanks has surrounded himself with a company of actors who represent the aristocracy of the stage and screen. Fairbanks, personally, selected each player because of truthfulness to type and character.

Dumas, himself, could not have chosen a more perfect impersonator of his seventeenth century hero than Fairbanks. Doug does not merely play D'Artagnan, the valiant musketeer. He is D'Artagnan, come to life after three hundred years, in all the vividness of his gay, adventurous spirit. D'Artagnan is Fairbanks' favorite of all his long career. After making "The Three Musketeers" six years ago, he now realizes his wish to continue the adventure of the daring musketeers.

In selecting the men to play his three musketeers, Athos, Porthos and Aramis, Mr. Fairbanks chose actors of as widely different characteristics and personalities as those of the three friends whom they so perfectly portray. Leon Barry, who plays the dignified, intelligent, valorous Athos, is one of the most distinguished actors of the French stage and screen. To the role of the amorous, religious Aramis, Guino Corrado brings the fire and intensity of his Italian ancestry. Stanley J. Sandford, veteran comedian, invests Porthos with all the swaggering buffoonery Dumas gave him. He gave him.

GRETA NISSEN ON CERAMIC BILL

East is East, but the twain does meet in "Fazil," Fox Films feature production which opens tomorrow at Ceramic theater. But Kipling must have been right in the first place, for they don't mix at all.

Fazil is the name of an Arabian prince, impersonated by Charles Farrell. Greta Nissen plays the French girl who represents the West. Farrell excels his characterizations in "7th Heaven" and "Street Angel" as the handsome, arrogant Fazil. Miss Nissen is ravishing and wears any number of dazzling gowns.

The story is about a young sheik who rules his tribe with an iron hand and on a diplomatic trip to Paris falls in love with and marries a Parisienne. They clash, however, for she will not be ruled by the customs and traditions of his people. This leads to many intensely dramatic scenes, the climax coming when her friends come to the Prince's palace to help her escape. During this exciting episode, Fazil is shot. The ending is as unexpected as it is thrilling.

Besides the featured players, the cast includes Mae Busch, Tyler Brooke and Hank Mann.

BETTY COMPTON IN MUSICAL HIT

One of the most popular of the musical comedies of a decade or more ago, "The Time, the Place and the Girl," which delighted audiences all over the country, has been made into a Vitaphone screen musical comedy by Warner Bros., is now at the American theater. Warner Bros. judged the public taste correctly when they decided to make the musical comedy hit into a talking, singing and dancing screen musical play. They have succeeded admirably, thanks to Vitaphone, an intelligent director and a cast of all-star players.

Grant Withers, Betty Compton and Gertrude Olmstead have the romantic leads and each gives an excellent performance. Other important members of the cast, each deserving of more than a word of praise, are James R. Kirkwood, Vivian Oakland, Gretchen Hartman, Irene Haisman, John Davidson, Gerald King and Bert Roach.

The story concerns a conceited college football hero turned bond salesman who draws the attractive young Long Island society matrons about him who cannot sell bonds. Ward, his employer, decides to get him to play the young married women as suckers in selling some worthless bonds—among them is Ward's own wife—and then leave him holding the bag, with a possible jail sentence. Thanks to the love and loyalty of a stenographer in Ward's office, the former grid hero pays back the women who had bought the worthless bonds and he escapes the jealous fury of Ward who had become suspicious of his wife.

W. C. T. U. Chieftain Urges Chance For Prohibition

Mrs. Ella Boole Regrets Killing by Dry Agents.

"We have a slogan in the W. C. T. U.," says Mrs. Ella Boole, commenting on the present situation. "It goes this way: 'Give prohibition a chance; the saloons had theirs.'" As head of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, she expressed regret over the shedding of blood in efforts to enforce the law.

In spite of the recent tragedies—the death of Henry Virkula at International Falls, Minn.; the Aurora, Ill., shooting in the De King family, the death of J. W. Hendricks, student of Abington, Ky., and the "I'm Alone" case—Mrs. Ella Boole firmly believes in the ultimate success of the act.

Mrs. Boole continued saying that sometimes officers were forced to extreme measures by the very nature of their work when they are dealing with desperate characters. It becomes a question of the officer's life or the bootlegger's.

"If life is taken in defense against robbery; or if a life is taken to prevent murder; or if personal harm is done in the pursuit of a criminal, it is called justifiable homicide. The same rule of law and reason applies in these regrettable cases."

POISON CLAIMS THIRD TOT IN CHICAGO HOME

Two Other Children and Husband and Wife
Ill.
15 DOCTORS BUSY
Physicians Hint Canned
Food Possible Cause
Of Deaths.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Three-year-old Lorraine Markowski died today, the third victim of a mysterious poison that is threatening to claim the lives of a family of seven.

Fifteen physicians, including several specialists, were studying the case as Lorraine succumbed. The other dead were Chester Kwiatkowski, 7, and his sister, Agnes, 8. These two were children of Mrs. Irving Markowski by a former marriage.

Two other children and Markowski and his wife are fighting for their lives in the county and psychopathic hospitals.

Doctors who examined the stomach contents of the dead and living said the poison appeared to have a metallic base and may have been caused by canned foods. It was said it also may have been due to ingredients of paint, which Markowski used in his occupation.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Markowski was able to give police a coherent explanation, and it was said they either were subnormal mentally or were suffering from effects of the mysterious poison.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Ernestine Hornbeck.
Mrs. Ernestine Hornbeck, 75, died last night in the home of her son, I. L. Hornbeck, Lisbon street, after a short illness.

She is also survived by another son, Edward Hornbeck, of Tulsa, Okla.

The body will be taken tonight to her former home at Liverpool, W. Va., where funeral services will be held and burial made tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Alma Young.
Mrs. Alma Young, 54, wife of J. W. Young, of Third and Grant street, Newell, W. Va., died today following an operation in the City hospital.

Besides her husband, she leaves one son, Fred, Newell; four daughters, Mrs. Claude Mills and Mrs. Goldie Jividen, Newell; Miss Nina Young, East Liverpool, and Miss Lucille Young, at home; one brother, Charles Spear, Ravenswood, W. Va., and a sister, Mrs. John Peters, Newell.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Newell Methodist Episcopal church, in charge of the Rev. T. H. Mahan, assisted by the Rev. F. F. Freese. Burial will be made in Locust Hill cemetery.

Man in Co-ed Case Freed

seen him about 9:30 p. m. the night of the murder.

Mrs. Snook Collapses.
After a four-hour grilling yesterday afternoon, during which she at one time collapsed, Mrs. Snook, the wife of the 40-year-old man, declared she had not seen her husband until 11:30 p. m. or perhaps later, the night of the slaying, though she had previously stated she was with him at 9:30.

She explained that she heard a door of their home slam at about 9:30, but that she was not sure it was her husband.

According to Prosecutor Chester, Dr. Snook is unable to account for his movements for 13 hours the night of the slaying, which occurred on the thirteenth of this month.

Chester has not indicated whether he will file any charges today.

Meanwhile authorities are apparently at a standstill in their probe.

Chester, moving with his characteristic attempt at secrecy, attempted to dodge newspapermen at midnight and go to the county jail to question Snook. He was followed, however, and at the end of an hour and a half emerged from the man's cell with the announcement that he had learned "nothing startling."

The chemist, Dr. C. F. Long, who examined the stains on Snook's small coupe and who also conducted an examination of the contents of the woman's stomach, is expected to make his report some time today.

Dr. Snook was cool and collected when questioned by newspaper men in his cell today. He told a straightforward story, and except for the one discrepancy, he told of nothing that was not already known.

HITS RUM RING

Forty federal men who unearthed a trail of liquor which they allege leads to the innermost circle of New York society, were led by William J. Callahan. He claims he has smashed a huge international booze ring.

MULLEN NABBED AT DOG TRACK

Manager Posts $5,000
Bond on Gambling Charge.

Peter J. Mullen, formerly of East Liverpool but who recently has been engaged in the automobile business in Florida, is at liberty under $5,000 bond pending investigation into charges of permitting gambling in connection with the opening of the dog races at Rush Run, Jefferson county. He is manager of the track.

Mullen was arrested by Sheriff William Vost of Steubenville, following Saturday night's races. A capacity crowd attended the races and had placed money on the dogs in what is known as the "contribution and refund" system. The management contends that this system is now being used in Columbus and cannot be construed as gambling by Ohio statutes.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper, Columbus, recently called upon sheriffs in counties in which dog racing is conducted to ban gambling.

In a pre-school clinic last year, approximately 200 children were examined. These children will be re-examined next week if physical defects, found a year ago, have not been corrected.

A survey of the children who will enter the first grade in September was made before school closed in May. Names of these children had been placed in the hands of district leaders.

Three-Day Schedule.
The clinic will open at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, closing with the afternoon session on Wednesday. The schedule for school district, arranged by health department officials, follows:

K. C. MAN MAKES ODD JAUNT TO TROPIC STATES

Harold Neibling Utilizes
Ox Cart and Burro
On Journey.
10-WEEK TRIP
Attorney Sees Buried
Cities and Quaint Villages.

By Robert C. Lightfoot.
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Utilizing the most ancient modes of travel, the ox cart and the burro, and the most modern transportation device, the airplane, Harold Neibling, Kansas City attorney and writer, has completed a ten weeks trip through Central America.

Neibling returned to Kansas City tanned by the tropical sun, and still showing signs of the ravages of tropical fevers and ticks, but enthusiastic over the things of interest he encountered in the six sister republics of the United States, which comprise Central America.

Visits Buried Cities.
Buried cities, flowing volcanoes, quaint native villages and customs, and strange animal life were some of the things which combined to make his trip intensely interesting, Neibling said.

Among the interesting collection of native curios Neibling brought back with him were several small bakel images dug out of buried Indian villages. These images were quaintly carved.

Presidents.
Neibling had personal interviews with the presidents of each of the six republics, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala and Panama. He found an especially warm welcome in Nicaragua, he said, where a detachment of marines is still located.

"Nicaraguan officials," Neibling said, "declare the United States marines did that country a distinct service by protecting lives and property against banditry, and official Nicaragua wants them to stay for awhile."

PRESBYTERIANS GREET PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(INS)—While messages of protest continued to pile up in Washington today over the wave of prohibition killings, President Hoover was visited by a delegation of Presbyterians, headed by the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, who assured him of the church's support in his efforts to enforce prohibition.

Chief Justice Taft Wed 43 Years.
WASHINGTON, June 19.—(INS)—Chief Justice and Mrs. William Howard Taft celebrated their forty-third anniversary today at their summer home in Murray Bay, Quebec.

Many messages and gifts went forward from Washington.

The Tafts celebrated their silver anniversary in the White House.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service
Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Dullness and irregularity ruled in the stock exchange in the first hour today. The extreme heat of the last few days has driven many of the big traders out of the financial district, and those who remained were sellers of the active stocks on profit taking.

The utility stocks held up remarkably after their spectacular advances of the last two weeks. In some cases new gains of 20 to 50 points have been recorded, bringing prices from 40 to 100 per cent above the January-February ranges, but the comparatively small floating supply of stocks makes it dangerous for the bears to sell them short in any large volume. The New York City Gas and Electric Light stocks made the best showing today, with Brooklyn Union Gas up 7 points at 195.

SLAYER FORD DIES JULY 19

Supreme Court Fixes
Date of Ohioan's Execution.

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—(INS)—Rejecting his application for a rehearing, the Ohio supreme court today fixed July 19, next, as the date for electrocution of Rodney Ford, Hamilton county prisoner, at Ohio penitentiary.

The supreme court recently dismissed Ford's appeal for a reversal of the judgment of the lower courts which found him guilty of murder.

Ford was convicted of participating in the killing of Peter Dumel, village marshal, at North College Hill, near Cincinnati, early on Easter Sunday morning, April 8, 1928.

The murder, it was charged, occurred when Ford and other persons sought to rob the Pelican club.

OHIO TRAGEDY CLAIMS THREE

MARTINS FERRY, O., June 19.—(INS)—Death today of Patrolman W. S. Cusick, 62, marked the passing of the third principal who figured in the shooting affray here December 29, last, when Policeman P. A. Readdy and Homer O. Smith were killed.

Cusick's death was due to the shock he suffered while aiding Readdy in an effort to capture Smith.

Near $5,000,000 was spent in replacing electrical breakdowns in England last year.

HUSBAND SUES

Mae Busch, screen actress, who last August filed suit for divorce, has been sued in turn by her husband, John E. Cassell, salesman for a shoe concern in Milwaukee. He alleges desertion.

TODAY

PROF. ROGERS told students that to get on, they must be "snobs." His wife told young ladies that to make their way they should be "high hat"—meaning supercilious, condescending, overbearing.

NOW President McConaughy tells young men to be "aristocrats in training, and conviction."

"Aristocracy" properly understood is admirable. It comes from two Greek words which mean the rule of the best.

But that isn't the American meaning.

Abraham Lincoln would not have called himself aristocrat.

John Wesley would never have called himself an aristocrat.

Wendell Phillips said truly "aristocracy is always cruel."

Why not advise young people to be good Americans, work hard, try to do something worth while and leave the world, or some corner of it, better than they found it?

WISCONSIN voted for beer, sadly suggesting voting for a soda fountain in the middle of the Sahara.

Now, J. G. Hardgrove, once president of the Milwaukee Bar association, says each state can manufacture alcoholic liquors and distribute them to its citizens, if it chooses. He expects that Wisconsin will lead the way.

According to this noted lawyer, the constitution forbids individuals to manufacture or deal in intoxicating liquors, but does not forbid states to do so.

GEN. DAWES in Britain will discuss cutting down the navy.

Ramsay MacDonald, labor minister, knows that corpses on land and sea, in war, are nine times out of ten corpses of laboring men. He really means to stop war.

Others are not so earnest about it.

COURT RELEASES ELMER VILETIC

Elmer Viletic, 35, Midland, arrested here Saturday upon a reckless driving charge and who refused to accompany authorities to Beaver, Pa., where a larceny charge had been filed, was dismissed by Municipal Judge Hanley today after a settlement was made with Arnold Fleish for damages alleged to have been done to his automobile.

Joseph Sabol, New Brighton, failed to identify Viletic as the man who, he alleged, had swindled him out of $200 in a "con" game. A woman who came here from California, Pa., could not identify him as the man who had defrauded her and her husband.

Akron Youth Drowns.
AKRON, O., June 19.—(INS)—Authorities here today were seeking relatives of Edward Richardson, 23, who drowned in the Cuyahoga river yesterday. Richardson went beyond his depth while swimming and was unable to reach shore. He came here recently and is believed to have been from Mississippi.

C. D. A. CAMP OPENS JULY 18

Playlet, "Rainbow
Kimonos," Staged
As Benefit.

The Junior Catholic Daughters' two-week camp will open at Mineral Springs park, near Pughtown, W. Va., on July 18, it was announced today by officers of Court Dunne, the senior lodge, following last night's presentation of the benefit playlet, "Rainbow Kimonos," in the high school auditorium.

Mesdames Audrey Densmore, Kress Cronin and Martha Small and Miss Pauline Florak will be camp leaders.

More than 200 friends attended the juniors' playlet, which was directed by Miss Mary Lister, who was assisted by Walter Williams and Mesdames Densmore and Cronin.

Members of the cast essayed their roles in a manner that won hearty applause.

The Misses Dorothea Powell, Elsie Evans and Alice Long and Burns McNeil and Jack Evans, New Cumberland, W. Va., high school pupils, presented orchestra selections.

The stage effects were donated by the Moore and Crook Furniture companies and Simpson Brush company.

FIRE SWEEPS ELKRUN HOME

The fire started following the explosion of a gasoline stove.

Neighbors and volunteers from Rogers formed a bucket brigade but the fire was beyond control. Few household articles were saved.

HOW STOWAWAY TOLD HIS PARENTS

June 18, 1929

Dear Parents,
I am attempting to go across on the airship "Green Flash". If I succeed on getting on do not worry for me. I am doing this thing of my own accord and was not influenced by anyone and wish no one to be held responsible for the consequences. I am doing it because I know that if I succeed I can do much for your happiness. Please do not think bad of me. I will cable you if I arrive in Rome. I am constantly thinking of you.
Love, Arthur.

This letter would have given any mother and father a shock. The call of adventure seized Arthur Schreiber and this note is the way he took of telling his parents of Portland, Me., he was soaring over the ocean in the "Yellow Bird," the first aerial stowaway. The note reveals that the youth intended to stow himself on the "Green Flash" on its flight to Rome.

The true purpose of a budget

EVERY year you spend a large proportion of the money you get. So much for clothing. So much for shoes. So much for things to eat—for house furnishings, books, and what not.

Here is the way to get the most for your money.

Keep a budget. Decide what you can afford to spend for each item, and hold yourself within this amount.

Then—to get the most for your budget money read advertisements carefully. The advertisements you read tell you what is newest and best. They give you the latest ideas and improvements. They help you to get more from each dollar you have apportioned in your budget—and so live better and dress better with the same income.

The true purpose of a budget is to enable you to spend wisely—and only by careful reading of advertising can you hope to accomplish this result.

Read advertising regularly. It points the way to better living.

LAUGHLIN SLUGS WAY TO WIN OVER WELLSVILLE, 10-5

Pollock Potters' Pitcher

Deshler Gives up 11 Hits in Battle at Newell.

MAKING his debut in a Homer Laughlin uniform as a member of the West Virginia Inter-City League combine, Ray Pollock, former Turk Nash and K. T. K. pitcher, last night hurled the Potters to a 10-5 win over Wellsville on the Newell diamond.

Pollock became the property of the Laughlin club yesterday in a trade with the Kates in which the locals got Catcher Pumphreys.

Laughlin landed on Sonny Deshler's curves for 11 safe hits, scoring a pair in the first, four in the third and four more in the fifth. Dugman, Messer, Rubin and Crawford, with two blows, each, led the attack.

Pollock had the situation pretty well under control with the exception of the second and third frames when the visitors got most of their hits and most of their runs. With Bill Talbott, Johnny Watson and Joe Canine pounding the pill for a brace of clouts apiece.

Pete Dustman contributed one of the star fielding features of the tilt when he caught Rubin's foul fly near the first base bleachers in the opening frame.

Laughlin got off on the right foot in the opening inning. Messer singled to left. Finley tripled, scoring Messer. Chapple tried to stretch his hit into a homer but was out at the plate as Watson relayed Jackson's throw to Meek. Dugman then smacked the apple on a line drive to center which went for a home run.

The visitors chased over a run in the second. Talbott, Watson and Canine singled in succession. Pollock then turned in some pretty slab work. With three on and nobody gone he tightened up. Dustman, Meek and Deshler went out on a passed ball. Talbott, however, scored on a passed ball while Meek was batting.

Wellsville took the lead, temporarily, in the first of the third, scoring three runs on four hits. This slight lead faded, however, as the Dickey squad launched an attack in the same frame which netted them four markers on five bingles and a pair of walks.

The Motors pushed their last run across in the fourth. Meek drew a walk, got to second on a passed ball, stole third and counted on a noor peg to the plate on G. Wagner's ground ball.

Laughlin put the game on the shelf in the fifth, scoring four more on three hits, a wild pitch, sacrifice fly and a hit batter.

HELEN JACOBS NEW NET STAR

LONDON, June 19.—Helen Jacobs, 18-year-old California tennis player, is being hailed by English tennis experts as a second Helen Wills following her sensational play in tournaments here.

Since she arrived in England a few weeks ago, Miss Jacobs has carried all before her, and already is being spoken of as a semi-finalist or even a finalist in the Wimbledon championships.

Partnered by Betty Nuthall, the rising young English player, Helen has won the mixed doubles at the Middlesex county championships. In the North London tournament she electrified the spectators by winning a match in 17 minutes without the loss of a game.

STICKWORK KEEPING A'S AT TOP

Playing as some of the championship teams Connie Mack used to turn out in the dim distant past, the present A's are slugging their way against all opposition in the American League. If you want to know the secret of their success all you need to do is glance at the league batting averages and among the first four names you read you'll find Fox, Cochran and Simmons. Jimmy Fox, left, is the sensation. He's been pasting everything that came his way over the fence and other places where they "ain't." Mickey Cochran, top, right, and Al Simmons, below, are mighty good hitters and have always been counted on to turn in nice fat averages but neither of them came up to Jimmy Fox for distance. Jimmy has hit the center field wall at Shibe Park on the fly, the one and only time this feat has ever been accomplished.

BUCKEYES TO TRY NEW "TIP" PLAN

Pass From Out of Bounds To Supplant Center Jump.

COLUMBUS, O., June 4.—The new basketball tip-off idea, one of the most widely discussed features of intercollegiate basketball, will be given a practical test at Ohio State university here next season, according to Harold G. Olson, Buckeye basketball mentor.

An epidemic of giants in the court game has placed a severe handicap on squads which have outstanding basketball ability but cannot obtain possession of the ball from the center of the floor, it is pointed out. This proved to be true in Big Ten Circles last season with such a giant as "Stretch" Murphy of Purdue, dominating all opponents.

Sentiment for a change of this portion of the rules resulted at the recent meeting of the National Association of Basketball coaches in a recommendation that each institution give an alternative method of putting the ball into play at trial in at least one game next year.

There are several variations of the proposed change. It has been suggested that the team which had just been scored upon put the ball into play from out of bounds in the middle of the floor. Another proposal specified that under the basket is the spot for the sphere to come into play. A third suggestion would alternate a throw-in from one team to another without regard to which team chalked up the last marker.

The National Association of Coaches, of which Olson is secretary and Craig Ruby, of Illinois, is president, has also recommended to the rules committee that the modification be made of the "held ball" rules.

All Outdoors

By J. W. Stuber

SPORTSMEN who have never taken with them to the woods a small "off size" motion picture camera do not realize the joy they have missed by not being able to live over again the trip afield in their movies at home. For years sportsmen have gathered about the fire place or at their club and told and retold their stories of hunting and fishing days. Now they can live them over again, see their own campfire burning, see the big bass that was caught, see the leaping salmon, see the deer or moose as they saw him on the trip—and show it all to the little fellow who is growing up and who will soon want a rod and a gun and a place to go. My machine films of a Nova Scotia expedition are priceless to me. A Quebec trip will bring me a happy hour and I can see the smiling face of my Indian guide as he flips the flap jacks in the frying pan, just as he did it when I camped with him far up in the North Country.

In a recent scouting trip for places to go, my attention was called to the Muskoka Lakes territory, 110 miles north of Toronto. For the outdoors man from Ohio or central states whose time is limited, and who can not go to the "far away" places, the Muskoka Lake country, two days by auto from any part of Ohio, will furnish excellent fishing for large and small mouth black bass, pike, pickerel and muskies.

By train the way is via Canadian Pacific railway from Detroit or Cleveland, to Bala or Canadian National Falls, Hamilton to Toronto, and north from Toronto to Richmond, to Orillia, then on to Bala or Muskoka Wharf.

"YOU can't catch 'em where they ain't," Morris Ackerman, nationally known "Where To Go" scout, big game hunter, and president of the Outdoor Writers' Association of America, said to me in Chicago a few weeks ago, when we were discussing bass and bass fishing, trout and trout fishing, and muskies. "Ack" tipped me off to some good lakes in the Laurentian mountains and Gattineau Valley Land, 100 miles north from Ottawa, in Quebec. Lots of this wonderful fishing territory is under private lease, but there is plenty of open water, and these waters are full of bass, pike, dore, trout, lake trout, and other game fish native to this territory—plenty of 'em. "Here they are," "Ack" asserted and he knows because he's been there plenty. He says we can write to his friend and guide, Gerald Grace, at Grace's Limited, Gracefield, Quebec, and it's okay with him for Grace to give us the dope.

SONGE CAPTURES ROYAL HUNT RACE

ASCOT, Eng., June 19.—The royal hunt cup race, principal feature of the second day of the famous Ascot meeting, was won this afternoon by Songe Carballero, second and Guard's Parade third. Twenty-nine horses ran. The winner paid 100 to six, and second and third places paid twenty-five to one each.

This proposed change would specify that any jumper can tap a jump-ball, but can NOT recover it until it has been touched by another player or has touched the floor.

This would prevent man of superior height from batting the ball up into the air, then catching it on its downward course and either holding or passing it. It is probable that a public trial of the tip-off experiment will be made in the game between Ohio State and Ohio University, to be played here next December.

Coach Olson of the Scarlet and Gray team is holding spring basketball practice three days a week, and has been experimenting on the proposed new rule, so that his men will be not the strangers to it when the season opens in December.

MILLERS SHOVE K. C. FROM TOP

Kansans Lose to Toledo And Slip Back Notch.

As has been repeatedly predicted by more than one dooper, Minneapolis has forged to the head in the American association pennant race, replacing Kansas City in first place, by virtue of nothingness yesterday.

The Minneapolis-Louisville game was rained out, and the Millers went to the top notch when Toledo walloped Kansas City to the tune of 12 to 8. Kansas City is in the second berth. St. Paul, ye ole reliable team, remained in third by nosing out Indianapolis by a 4 to 3 score. Indianapolis is fourth.

Louisville is fifth, about four games behind the Hoosiers.

Toledo is sixth, but it can't be said how long the Colonels will stay there, inasmuch as the percentage column shows they are only .002 percent in the lead of Milwaukee.

Milwaukee narrowed that lead yesterday by shutting out Columbus in a nine-inning tilt which showed a 4 to 0 score.

Columbus, as is so often said, is last, in the cellar with the doors locked and the keys thrown away, not to be found until some other team begins a grand slide toward the netherlands.

BILL TERRY TOPS LOOP IN HITTING

Giant First Sacker Gets Nine Hits in 10 Trips Out.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Memphis Bill Terry, slugging first baseman of the Giants, is leading in the race for the National league batting championship today as a result of his hitting spree in the New York-Brooklyn double-header yesterday. In 10 times at bat Wild William blasted nine hits, including one home run, and ran his average 24 points up to an even .400—one of the most spectacular feats of the year.

Despite Terry's slugging, the McGrawmen dropped both games of the twin bill, 8 to 7 and 7 to 6, and lost considerable ground in the pennant race. The rival pitching aces, Vance and Benton, were knocked out in the opener and Babe Herman's homer broke up the second game in the ninth. The high-flying Robins have copied seven of their last nine starts.

The Cubs virtually created a triple tie for first place by swamping the league-leading Cardinals, 13 to 6, while Pittsburgh lost to Cincinnati, 2 to 1. Two home runs by the mighty Hack Wilson, the second coming with the sacks fully populated, accounted for six of Chicago's tallies.

The Cincinnati-Pittsburgh game was a brilliant pitching duel, Red Lucas allowing the Bucs only four hits and Brame yielding six. Hits by Swanson, Dessen and Kelly broke up the game in the eighth. The Pirates have been held to an even break by the Reds in four games.

Chuck Klein's 17th homer featured the Phillies' 4 to 2 win over the Braves. The heralded "slump" of the Athletics was limited to two consecutive defeats when they nosed out the Senators, 7 to 6. Lefty Grove was knocked out but Rube Walberg stopped the No. 18.

Inter-City League Battling Hot As First Half End Nears

Tail-end Clubs Only a Game and a Half Away From First Place Today.

THE boys who conceived the idea of so balancing the Inter-City baseball league that no club would have any decided advantage over the other, with the idea of promoting a close race all the way, can go to Patagonia anytime now with the assurance that they did a neat job.

Any club in this league that has an idea of making a runaway race of it will have to do it while the rest of the crowd isn't looking and most of them to date have had their eyes wide open.

As a result, there is a difference of only a game and a half between the league leading Kates and the Chester-Newell entries, tied for third place.

This Newell bunch up and trimmed Wellsville last night and the latter, as a result, are a game behind the Kates today.

Chester and Wellsville battle Thursday night at Nicholson Field and it won't take a pair of spies to see what will happen if the West Virginians win.

Then, on Friday night, the Kates invade Newell. If the Kates win it will give them a mighty nice lead with the end of the first half drive only a week away. But if they should lose and if Wellsville should win tomorrow night—well, next week will be hot.

President C. W. Davis has called a meeting of the league for tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms, Little building.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK.—Al Brown, N. B. A. bantamweight champion, won decision over Vidal Gregorio, of Spain (15).

Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, stopped Terry Roth, New York (3). Tony Vaccarelli, New York middleweight, won decision over Pete Meyers, San Francisco (10).

Pete Sanstol, of Norway, outpointed Sammy Farber, New York bantamweight (6).

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, Neb., outpointed Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia lightweight.

Nats, who have beaten the Mackmen only once all season. The Mackmen now lead the Yankees by eight full games, as the Huguenots lost to the Red Sox, 7 to 4, after Fred Heinach had blanked the Sox 5 to 0 in the opener. An error by Durocher paved the way for four Boston runs in the eighth.

Earl Combs of the Yankees hit safely in his 17th consecutive game, and Buster Gehrig's 18th homer kept him in a tie for the lead with Hafey of the Cardinals, who also rapped out No. 18.

Open Golf Foes Face Real Test

Winged Foot Course Presents Heart Breaking Outlook.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 19.—"Poems are made by fools like me; but only God can make a tree," wrote Joyce Kilmer. He must have forgotten all about A. W. Tillinghast, the golf architect.

Yesterday, the writer played the famous old infamous west course at Winged Foot over which the National Open Golf championship will be conducted, one week hence, and, judging from what he saw and all he heard, this tournament may produce another Oakland where Jones, Hagen, Farrell and all the big shots went phooey and a couple of kibitzers bored into a play off for the title. Anything is possible and in most cases probable on a course like this.

Trees, standing elbow to elbow, marshal the fairways almost from tee to green; trees lurk in waiting around every corner, and on three sides of the average green, you will find trees, tall and stately, trees, stunted and picturesque, and trees that merely are trees. If it never had anything else, Winged Foot would be a spider's web, a cruel, calculating device to snare the unwary ball on the wing. But the layout has everything, including a hazard that was not in the original script—badly sun-burned fairways.

With its small, jagged greens, its large traps, heavy with air-breaking sand, its rough full of clever and fairways that make you a present of one hanging lie after another, the course makes a demand that no man can hope to fulfill—perfection for every shot.

Farrell, the current champion, and Sarazen, once holder of the title, were out there in a forenoon yesterday, hitting shot after shot on the line. All they got for it was an afternoon of hard work in which they had to play fighting golf to break eight, Sarazen having a 77 and Farrell a 78. Their best ball showed only two birdies, Farrell having seven 5's in his card and Sarazen nine of them. Previously, Farrell had played nine holes with the writer's foursome in 41, so everything was according to McCoy, as we say at the lunch wagon.

LUCAS' CURVES BAFFLE BUCS

CINCINNATI, June 19.—Red Lucas limited the slugging Pirates to four hits here yesterday and won a pitchers' battle from Brame, 2 to 1.

Kelly, elongated first baseman who had batted at a .500 clip last week, sent the winning run home with a single. The Reds rallied after two were out in the eighth and won the game when Swanson and Dessen doubled, Walker walked and Kelly singled.

Pittsburgh's only run came in the sixth inning. Bartell, first man up, was safe on Dessen's low throw. L. Warner grounded out. P. Warner flied out, but Traynor singled to left, sending Bartell across.

Hands Unseen

New Mystery Story of "Gray Phantom,"

Loveable Outlaw.

By Herman Landon

Copyright by Street and Smith Corporation.

"It's a lot to ask anybody to shell out," Wade admitted, "but ten million was small pickings for The Gray Phantom in the old days. Why, I remember the times when he used to go out and pick up a million or so just to get up an appetite for breakfast. And then he would fling the stuff away for breakfast. Couldn't get rid of it quick enough. Cared nothing about it after he'd got his excitement out of it. Now, those slick crooks who kidnaped your father knew that it wouldn't be much of a trick for The Phantom to scrape together ten million berries. In the old days he used to pull off such stunts just for the fun of it, so they figured he wouldn't balk at doing it now when he had a real motive. Now I guess you understand, Miss Hardwick."

The fat man glanced sheepishly at Vanardy, shifted his weight in the chair, and lighted a cigarette. The girl had turned a shade paler, but she was holding herself erect.

"I wonder," she murmured, "why they didn't kidnap me instead of father?"

"That's easy," said Wade. "Even The Gray Phantom needs a cool head to rake in ten million dollars. They reasoned that he'd go plumb dippy if anything happened to you."

The girl regarded him a moment longer, then turned to Vanardy and placed a hand on his sleeve. Her eyes as she looked up at him were warm and soft despite the shadows in their depths.

"You did wrong, Phantom Man," she told him, "but I understand."

"Wrong?" The fat man choked on a whiff of cigarette smoke. "You can stand there and tell him that to his face? Why, if I was sweet on a girl, and a pack of byenas had kidnaped her old dad, I'd do the same thing. I'll be hanged if I wouldn't! Didn't expect The Phantom to pick the ten million out of his vest pocket, did you?"

"No but—" She hesitated and stood slowly plucking at Vanardy's sleeve. "Just one more question. What would happen to father if the ten million weren't paid?"

The fat man coughed in an embarrassed way. Vanardy shifted his gaze from the girl's anxious face.

"The gang that kidnaped him are too shrewd to rush matters," he said evasively. "They have given me six months in which to produce the money and during that time the amount is to be paid off in installments." He paused, then added reluctantly, "I had hoped to pay the first installment today."

A grumble rose from Wade's expansive chest. "The boss has a lot of queer notions that I can't dope out," he told the girl disgustedly. "He had a nice little job all framed up. It would have come off as smooth as greased lightning. Then he up and spoils it all. I guess he got a telephatic message from you. Miss Hardwick. What's a bank's money for except to help out a man when he's in a pinch? Anyhow, it was to have been only a loan. As soon as your old dad was safe, he meant to stir heaven and earth to get the coin back from the kidnapers—and, believe me, he would have pretty near done it, too!"

Wade banged his fist against the arm of his chair. "Then he got that telephatic message from you, or whatever it was, and ditched the whole work!"

"I am glad," murmured the girl, sending Vanardy a warm glance. "I am sure we will find another way."

"Huh!" The fat man grunted. "If there had been another way, the boss would have found it already. Truth is, Miss Hardwick, that those vipers have got your father sewed up in a sack. They've got things arranged so that any move we make is queer in advance. Why, they've hidden him away in a place where—"

"Never mind that," interrupted Vanardy sharply. "I think Miss Hardwick understands enough."

"Oh, I do, and I'm glad you didn't—" Wade snickered derisively. "Just like a woman! A man goes the limit for her, and she wishes he wouldn't be so rough about it. Holy bluefish! Let me tell you something, Miss Hardwick. The boss tried so hard to be rough in a nice way that he made a mess of things. He was out of practice, you see. For three years he hadn't turned a single trick—not that kind of trick, anyhow. He had promised you to go straight, and he did till this thing came up. Then something had to be done in a hurry. He lay awake nights figuring how to do it and still keep his promise to you. He almost went woozy in the head. That's why he flunked on one or two details of the job. He was up against a hard one. Tried to walk straight on a road that was laid out crooked. It simply can't be done. In the old days, when he wasn't lured by any promises, he would have handled a job like that as easily as—as—"

Wade's impassioned flow of words ended in a gasp. The lamp on the table blinked three times in rapid succession. A sharp mutter escaped Vanardy.

"The signal!" exclaimed the fat man, scampering out of the chair. "The joint is pinched!"

The Search.

Again, while no sound was heard in the room, the signal was repeated. In fascination Helen watched the three swift flashes, then turned to where Vanardy had stood only a moment ago. He was gone, and the chair in front of the desk was occupied by Wade.

"Keep cool," he said blandly. "A little thing like a raid doesn't worry The Gray Phantom. This outfit is prepared for anything that may come along."

"But won't they get him?" she questioned excitedly. "Get The Gray Phantom? Hardly! They tried it before, but luck was against them. Don't worry, Miss Hardwick. The Phantom has had his emergency exit picked out since the day he moved in."

"But what about you and the rest of them?"

"Me and the rest? Why, the cops have nothing on me. I'm the executive director of Law and Order, Inc., and the others are members of my staff. The police could search this hangout till their eyes got sore without finding any evidence. Just sit down and keep cool till the excitement blows over."

There was something infectious about the fat man's serenity, and Helen sat down opposite him, watching him as he rummaged the desk drawers with a methodical air. Her forehead knitted perplexedly.

"You have been here a month," she pointed out, "and this is the first time you have been disturbed. Wonder what made the police come here this evening?"

Wade chuckled amusedly. "That's an easy one, Miss Hardwick. They know that you and The Phantom are something more than just good friends. You can bet that one of the first things they did after broadcasting a general alarm for The Phantom's arrest was to put a detective on your trail. They expected that sooner or later you would hear from him and get in touch with him some way. When you came here tonight, the detective followed you. While the three of us were sitting here chatting, the police threw a cordon around the block. Simple, eh?"

"Stupid of me!" fretted Helen. "I might have thought of that."

"You might have, if you hadn't been too excited. But don't you worry. One of The Gray Phantom's favorite stunts is breaking through police cordons. He's done it so many times that—" He paused, looked intently at the door, and struck a more dignified pose. "Now, Miss Hardwick, he went on in businesslike tones, "if you think you could like to try the position, I must ask you a few questions. Your age, please?"

"Twenty-four," said Helen, instantly taking her cue. Wade cocked an eye approvingly and made a note. "Your address?"

Helen told him.

"Have you had any previous secretarial experience, Miss Hardwick?"

"I have assisted my father in his duties as curator of the anthropological section of the Cosmopolitan Museum."

With a grave air Wade jotted down what she had told him. "I'll have to ask you for two or three references. Merely a formality, you understand. Please give me the name of—"

He broke off and looked up just as the door opened noiselessly. A lean, weary-looking individual in civilian clothes entered the room followed by three uniformed officers. He cast a mildly amused glance at Helen, then advanced to where the fat man sat, his plump face converted into a vast scowl.

RECALLS DAYS OF "SCREENBAR"

Copy of Old Newspaper Possessed by Robert Starkey.

44 YEARS OLD

Publication Took Name From Coal Industry Equipment.

Both former residents of the city, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Starkey, Avondale street and Bradshaw avenue, recently discovered among their effects a copy of "The Salineville Screenbar," one of the several papers which from time to time have been printed in that community.

The paper is the third number of the first volume and was printed on Friday, January 6, 1885, 44 years and more ago. It took its name from the fact that Salineville at that time was in the heyday of its coal industry and screenbars were used in separating nut and slack from the lump coal.

The proprietor and editor was W. W. Johnson. He published the official directory of the village. The village mayor was Calvin Ferrall; clerk, J. E. Herbert; treasurer, I. B. Cameron, who later became Ohio's treasurer.

ASKS FREEDOM

Mrs. Catherine Crowley Williams, daughter of William C. Crowley, wealthy Detroit merchant, who has filed suit for divorce against her husband, Lucien E. Williams, former Yale athlete and national intercollegiate tennis champion. On April 29 Mrs. Williams led a raid on a hotel in Chicago and her husband and Alice Krueger, a hairdresser, were arrested. Miss Krueger is named in the divorce bill.

Bolter-Plate Pages. The paper was a four-column eight page production. The inside pages were practically all bolter-plate and carried news from the world, poems, stories and humorous comment in keeping with the manner of news presentation in that day.

From the West Point correspondence, the cryptic initial three lines told volumes. They were: "News secure. Rough roads. Mill business thriving."

A Salineville item declared: "I. B. Cameron has placed a furnace in his residence this week and he and his family now enjoy a temperature of 75 degrees above zero." Another averred: "The trespass subject has been dropped and skating ring is the general topic of discussion."

The news items of the country tell of changes in the 48th congress. Relief for Indians and the interstate commerce bill were then engaging the attention of the national lawmakers.

Article By Gen. Grant. In the advertisements appeared an announcement of the February number of the Century magazine in which would appear Gen. U. S. Grant's first war paper on the "Battle of Shiloh." It was declared there would be many personal reminiscences therein with numerous illustrations. Another story was announced by the son of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnson. The latter commanded the Confederates in that battle and there lost his life. The son wrote on "The Confederate Side," since he himself was a staff officer in the battle. "Royalty on the Mississippi" by Mark Twain was another article announced.

There were numerous local advertisements in the paper. John Green announced himself to be in charge of an establishment, two doors west of the M. E. church, which was "headquarters for Queens, Glass, Tin and Yellow Ware at prices that defy competition."

Mr. and Mrs. Starkey have in their possession also a book of which the then pastor of the Presbyterian church, the Rev. J. Nesbitt Wilson, was the author.

The volume is entitled, "Why God Made Men." It was printed by the Gorman Press, Boston, Mass., and dedicated to his father, William Wilson, with the following declaration: "My father whose morning prayer was that the earth might soon be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea." And when on his deathbed commanded me saying: "Preach the gospel in the sight of God, in obedience to a sincere unfeigned conscience declare the revealed word of God, fearing the face of no man."

CAUSE OF 125
CLINIC DEATHS
STILL MYSTERY

No Criminal Prosecution In Cleveland Disaster, Coroner Says.

REPORT FILED

Prosecutor Ray T. Miller Signs Pearse Findings.

CLEVELAND, June 19. — (INS) — The exact cause of the Cleveland clinic disaster of May 15, which claimed 125 lives, will remain a mystery. There will be no criminal prosecution.

This had been established today by the long-awaited report of Coroner A. J. Pearse who made an extensive investigation of the tragedy.

The coroner's report was completed late yesterday and signed by himself and County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller. The report declares that the burning X-ray films, which generated a deadly gas and accounted for most of the deaths, might have been ignited by an electric light bulb, a match, a cigarette, or cigarette ashes.

Criticism is directed at the clinic for the manner in which the films were stored and the report points out that the Ohio Inspection Bureau, a fire underwriters' service, warned the institution on April 2, six weeks before the disaster, of the danger in storing large amounts of film.

Statements of several clinic officials that there was no precedent for the tragedy are contradicted by the report which points out that there was a similar fire in Memorial hospital at Albany, N. Y., Mar. 17, 1928 and that other institutions have repeatedly warned of the fire hazard in stored film.

The report shows that 33 witnesses were questioned, among them Buffery Boggs, steamfitter's helper who was in the storage room repairing a leaky pipe when the first explosion occurred, filling the building with poisonous gas.

The city investigating commission, headed by Health Commissioner H. L. Rockwood, is to complete its report in the near future.

Don't let your "economy" come too high

The man who feels that he cannot afford to buy the Chrysler-built De Soto Six is perhaps the very man who cannot afford not to buy it.

Obviously, if he buys a cheaper six he will do so entirely on the strength of its purchase price.

But purchase price is only one of the three major items entering into the expense of owning a car. There are also the costs of upkeep and of maintenance to be considered. The sum of these three actually represents what it costs you to drive any motor car.

De Soto Six is economical of fuel and oil. It will keep on running almost indefinitely with a negligible maintenance expense—records of De Sotos that have gone over 40,000 miles prove this. Consequently, in the course of a few months, your De Soto Six will easily save the difference between its price and that of a car inferior in engineering, design and materials.

This purely dollars-and-cents reason for preferring De Soto Six can be supplemented by the self-evident fact that all the time you are getting more comfort, pleasure, safety and pride of ownership from this Chrysler-built six than a cheaper car could possibly give you.

It will cost you nothing to take a demonstration—and no obligations implied
